

PhODS Lore

With love, by the PhODS Community

Preface

PhODS, the greatest server of ISODN, has a long history. In fact as of writing, it has four years of history that has gone unrecorded and been forgotten. This text attempts to unify it into a singular book of the funny, serious, and momentous occasions in PhODS since its inception.

1 The Old Generation

1.1 The Creation of ISODN

WE start with the creation of the big parent of PhODS, ISODN. It all started, as most great things do, with a group chat. This group chat contained a many people passionate about olympiads in different fields, such as Science and Math.

It soon became obvious that a single (or even several) group chats would not be able to conveniently contain all the new members arriving constantly, and thus the shift to discord was made. The group chats each became their own server, and their respective leaders talked in a server for ISODN.¹
